- Blue Angels will be practicing today, 02/03/16.

SITUATION SUMMARY

Weather of Concern

Northern California

- A cold front will bring rain, snow, and wind to portions of northwest California today, with stronger winds, rain and lower elevation snow tonight. 2 to 5 inches are expected with this system.
- Liquid precipitation amounts will range from a tenth of an inch in the valley and up to half of an inch in the foothills and mountains.

Southern California

- A Frost Advisory is in effect until 0900 hours for portions of Southern California.

River Forecasts

As of 0955 hours on 02/03/16:

- All River Guidance (Flood Forecast) Points are currently below critical stages.

Cal EOC Incident – 2014 Drought

- SOC / Inland REOC remains activated in support of 2014 Drought

Super Bowl 50 Weather Situational Awareness

In collaboration with local, state and federal partners, the San Francisco Bay Area National Weather Service (NWS) Weather Forecast Office (WFO) will provide enhanced decision support services to Emergency Management partners in support of their public safety efforts around the National Football League's (NFL) Super Bowl 50 and events leading up to the NFL championship game being held at Levi's Stadium in Santa Clara, California.

We will continue to send out a morning email briefing to serve as a broad weather outlook for the greater San Francisco Bay Area through at least Feb 8. If updates are made, an afternoon email briefing will also be issued. Additional forecast briefings will be disseminated based on partner request and/or weather demands.

Weather Summary

- A weak system will bring some sprinkles or light rain showers into the Bay Area late this afternoon and into the evening. This will not have high impacts. The greater concerns will be dangerous beach conditions with a larger swell moving towards the coast that will produce high surf today and then rip currents and sneaker wave threats into the weekend. There is a high confidence at this time that dry and very warm conditions will set up across the area for the weekend and Monday with near record high temperatures possible.
- Rain Today: Some very light rain or sprinkles will move into the area this evening. Amounts of just a few hundredths of an inch are possible. Not expected to be high impact, but could affect road travel with slick roads and any outdoor venues/activities, especially north of the Bay.
- Dangerous Beach Conditions: High surf is expected at the area beaches today and then a heightened threat of rip currents and sneaker waves at beaches on Thursday through Saturday. With the near record highs and many visitors to the area, there will be a concern for dangerous beach conditions.

7 Day Area Forecast for the Greater San Francisco Bay Area

Today: A 30 percent chance of rain after 3pm. Mostly cloudy, with highs mostly in the upper 50s. East wind around 6 mph.

Tonight: A 40 percent chance of rain, mainly before 10pm. Cloudy, then gradually becoming partly cloudy, with lows mainly in the middle 40s. Southeast wind between 3 and 6 mph.

Thursday: Mostly sunny, with highs mainly in the lower 60s. Northeast wind between 4 and 8 mph.

Thursday Night: Mostly clear, with lows mostly in the middle 40s. Calm wind becoming east around 5 mph.

Friday: Mostly sunny, with highs mainly in the lower 60s. East wind 4 to 6 mph becoming north.

Friday Night: Mostly clear, with lows mainly in the upper 40s.

Saturday: Sunny, with highs mostly in the middle 60s.

Saturday Night: Mostly clear, with lows mostly in the upper 40s.

Sunday: Sunny, with highs mostly in the upper 60s.

Sunday Night: Clear, with lows near 50.

Monday: Sunny, with highs mainly in the lower 70s.

Monday Night: Clear, with lows near 50.

6-10 Day Precipitation Outlook

Feb 06 - Feb 10, 2016

Climate Prediction Center

Issued: 01/31/2016

WEATHER

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA AND CENTRAL COASTAL AREAS:

Eureka Weather:

An approaching front will bring a period of light to moderate rain and gusty winds this afternoon and evening. Snow is expected in eastern trinity county. Upper level ridging will build on Thursday and provide dry weather. Another front will approach on Friday and bring another chance of rain by evening.

Medford Weather:

A shortwave trough and front are offshore and will gradually move into the area today bringing gusty south winds to portions of the area as well as rain and snow. Precipitation will decrease tonight into Thursday morning as an upper level ridge builds back into the area. Then models continue to show another shortwave trough and frontal system moving towards the region Thursday night and early Friday, then inland late Friday through Saturday morning.

Reno Weather:

An incoming low pressure system will provide chances for light snowfall across the northern sierra and northwest Nevada by late afternoon. A few inches of snowfall is possible with the best potential mainly north of interstate 80. High pressure will then build for the remainder of the week with drier conditions and milder temperatures for the weekend and early next week.

San Francisco Weather:

Light rainfall is expected to spread south into the San Francisco bay area by late in the afternoon or early in the evening. Dry weather is anticipated to develop tomorrow with warming temperatures expected into early next week. A few record highs may even be set next week.

Sacramento Weather:

A weak weather system will move through the region Wednesday. An extended period of dry weather then commences continuing into next week.

WEATHER

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

CENTRAL CALIFORNIA AND SOUTHERN SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY:

Hanford Weather:

Expect dry conditions through the weekend with gradually warming temperatures. Except, light mountain showers are possible from Fresno county northward, mainly during Wednesday evening.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA:

Los Angeles Weather:

Upper level high pressure and offshore flow will continue across the region for much of the next week. There will likely be some gusty winds at times, especially Friday and Saturday. A warming trend is expected through the weekend, with well above normal temperatures in most areas Sunday through Tuesday.

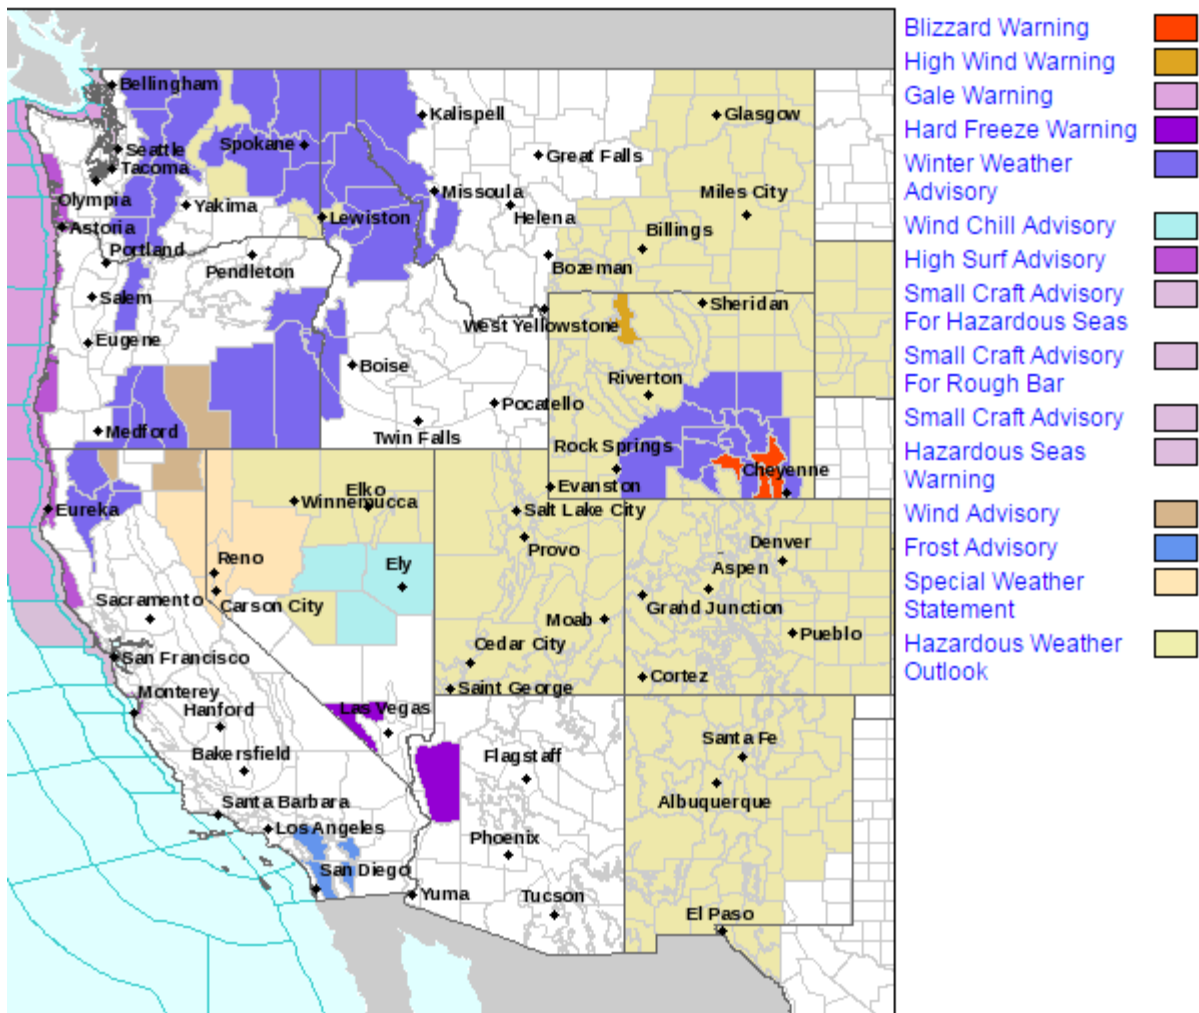

Extreme Southwestern California including Orange, San Diego, Western Riverside and Southwestern San Bernardino Counties:

It will be cold this morning with patchy frost in the valleys and lower deserts. Fair and warmer weather is expected this coming week. Offshore winds mainly in the foothills are expected during nights and mornings, strongest on Friday, Sunday and Monday.

Southeast California Weather:

Below normal temperatures will gradually warm to near normal by this weekend. Outside of occasional periods of breezy conditions and a slight chance of snow across the sierra and southern great basin. Benign weather is expected through the end of the weekend.
